PREFACE.

This volume is not designed to be a History, but a CYCLOPÆDIC MANUAL of the United Presbyterian Church in North America, in which may be found stated in the briefest and yet most comprehensive manner the principal facts concerning her ancestral branches and present condition, with sketches of the entire ministry, congregations, institutions, and various missionary agencies.

While in the preparation of this MANUAL the author was largely indebted to the excellent works of the late and venerable historiographer, the Rev. James Brown Scouller, D.D., yet many of the original sources of information, and numerous later ones, have been carefully examined and the whole work developed upon a new and comprehensive plan. The catalogues of the principal literary and theological institutions of the country, together with the Minutes and Year Books of various denominations, have been laid under contribution in tracing pastorates in order that a laconic sketch might be given of every minister who has been in connection with the Church.

In the sketches of the ministry, where an initial appears, it does not indicate a second name, but was adopted by the subject for distinction. In the list of congregations is given the best official record obtainable of the extinct as well as existing churches, the original and various names, the date of organization, the postal location, the antecedent branch of the church to which it belonged, the successive pastors or stated supplies with years of service, and the date of disorganization, or change of name, if such is the case.

Another new and attractive feature of this MANUAL, which should greatly enhance its value, is the incorporation of the portraits of the Moderators of the General Assembly since its constitution at the notable union of 1858.

Inerrancy is not claimed for this volume. An historical work of this character and magnitude, dependent upon thousands of sources for information and necessitating several transcriptions, cannot reasonably be published without some unintentional inaccuracies.

The author desires to return his sincere thanks to the many friends of the project, and to all who have aided him in his task. The work has required much diligent research and wide correspondence, and, doubtless, gives little evidence of the time and labor expended upon it; but, believing that such a thesaurus of denominational information was needed and desired, perchance due compensation will be made for all these exacting efforts if the MANUAL proves helpful and stimulating to those who are most deeply interested in the past attainments and present progress of the United Presbyterian Church.

HISTORICAL INTRODUCTION.

The United Presbyterian Church of North America is the fruit of several ancestral branches which found their original stock in the Presbyterian Church of Scotland. These antecedent Churches, so far as they entered into the composition of the present United Presbyterian Church of North America, will be briefly considered in their chronological order.

I. THE REFORMED PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.—The Reformed Presbyterian Church is the legal descendant of the Church of Scotland, and is, therefore, the oldest of the Dissenting Churches. It adhered tenaciously to the covenanted attainments achieved during the reformation period of 1638-1649, and became a distinct religious community after the Revolution Settlement of 1688. Many of her members suffered persecution and martyrdom at the hands of a tyrannical government as a reward for fidelity to covenant engagements. The embers of true devotion to Scriptural principles were sacredly kept alive by conventicles, society meetings and correspondences, without ministerial oversight or ecclesiastical jurisdiction, until 1743, when the "Reformed Presbytery of Scotland" was organized.

As early as 1720, members of this body found abode in America, and, in 1751, the Rev. John Cuthbertson came as the first missionary to the scattered Covenanter societies then principally located in Eastern Pennsylvania. "The Reformed Presbytery in America" was organized March 10, 1774. In 1782, the four ministers then composing the Presbytery, together with the great majority of the membership, entered into a union with the Associate Presbyteries of Pennsylvania and New York, thus constituting "the Associate Reformed Church." The remnant continued to hold society meetings and soon received a ministry from Scotland and Ireland. The Presbytery was reorganized in 1798, it being supplanted by a Synod in 1809, and thus the Reformed Presbyterian Church continues to perpetuate the principles and usages of her religious ancestry.

Statistics: 1 Synod; 12 Presbyteries; 126 ministers; 19 licentiates; 10 students of theology; 112 congregations; 9,722 communicants; 10,644 Sabbath school scholars; 2,162 members of Young People's societies; total contributions for 1902, $199,079; average per member, $20.47.

II. THE ASSOCIATE CHURCH.—On account of the abuse of patronage, departure from evangelical doctrine, and laxness in discipline, a number of ministers seceded from the Established Church of Scotland, in 1733, and constituted themselves into "The Associate Presbytery." They grew rapidly, and in a few years issued a Judicial Testimony, established a theological school, and organized a Synod composed of three Presbyteries. As early as 1742 they received petitions from America for a missionary to come to assume the spiritual guidance of those of a kindred faith scattered throughout Eastern Pennsylvania and New York.

A controversy as to the lawfulness of taking the burgher oath resulted, in 1747, in a division of the Church into the "Burgher" and "Anti-Burgher" branches. The Anti-Burgher Synod of Scotland was the first to respond to the appeals from America. The Rev. Alexander Gellatly, accompanied on the mission temporarily by the Rev. Andrew Arnot, came to the Colonies in 1753 and organized "The Associate Presbytery of Pennsylvania." In 1764, the Rev. Thomas Clarke and his Burgher congregation settled at Salem, N. Y., but they were received into the existing Associate Presbytery, in 1765, under an agreement on both sides to drop the Burgher controversy in America. In 1776, the Presbytery of New York was organized. At the union of these two Presbyteries with the Reformed Presbytery, November 1, 1782, forming "The Associate Reformed Church," a minority declined the coalescence and continued their organization. In 1801, a Synod was constituted under the name of "The Associate Synod of North America," with four subordinate presbyteries.

As a result of a case of discipline the Presbytery of Vermont, and parts of the Presbyteries of Albany and Cambridge, withdrew, in 1841, and constituted themselves into a Synod under the name of "The Associate Synod." This division was healed in 1854.

The deposition of a minister in Ohio, and the act of another in inviting him to preach, caused a temporary breach, and, in 1843, an independent organization was formed under the name of "The Free Presbytery of Miami." It adhered to the Associate testimony with the exception of the articles on occasional hearing and bans of marriage. This Presbytery was dissolved in 1845.

Because of some changes in the Confession of Faith, two ministers protested, and, in 1845, organized "The Independent Associate Presbytery of Philadelphia." It was abandoned, in 1858, when most of the ministry entered the United Presbyterian Church.

At the union of the Associate and Associate Reformed Churches, in 1858, forming "The United Presbyterian Church of North America," nine ministers and a number of ruling elders declined entering the union, protested against it, and with their congregations, or parts thereof, adhered to their testimony and organization, and thus the Associate Church continues as a branch of the Dissenting Church of Scotland.

Statistics: 1 Synod; 3 Presbyteries; 13 ministers; 32 congregations; 1,006 communicants; total contributions for the year 1901, $9,912; average per member, $9.84.

III. THE ASSOCIATE REFORMED CHURCH.—For several years previous to its consummation negotiations were conducted for a union of the Associate and Reformed Presbyteries. This was largely accomplished November 1, 1782, when the new denomination incorporated both names and was constituted as "The Associate Reformed Church." While remnants of both antecedent Churches continued their organizations, yet the great majority of both entered heartily into the union. A Synod was organized, consisting of three Presbyteries: The First, composed of the congregations in Eastern Pennsylvania; the Second, comprising the congregations west of the Susquehanna river; the Third, including the congregations in New York and the Eastern States.

Because the Associate Reformed Church failed to engage in public covenanting and declined to issue a judicial testimony; and also because it made certain changes in the Confession of Faith relating to the powers of the civil magistrate, two ministers and a few ruling elders declined the authority of Synod, and, in 1801, constituted "The Reformed Dissenting Presbytery." This organization was dissolved, in 1851, by a majority of the ministry entering the Associate Church.

In 1804, the General Synod of the Associate Reformed Church was constituted, with the subordinate Synods of New York, Pennsylvania, Scioto, and the Carolinas.

In 1820, because of alleged usurpation of powers by the General Synod, and departures from the principles of the Church on psalmody and communion, the Synod of Scioto withdrew and became independent under the name of "The Associate Reformed Synod of the West."

In 1822, the Synod of the Carolinas, on account of the great distance from the place of the meetings of the General Synod and the impossibility of maintaining proper representation therein, asked and obtained leave to withdraw, and was constituted an independent court under the name of "The Associate Reformed Synod of the South," and so continues to-day. In 1896, a plan of coöperation in mission work was adopted by the Synod and the General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church. There is also a hearty coöperation in Young People's work and conventions.

Statistics: 1 Synod; 9 Presbyteries; 103 ministers; 8 licentiates; 6 students of theology; 136 congregations; 11,703 communicants; 10,053 Sabbath school scholars; 2,250 members of Young People's societies; total contributions for 1901, $73,456; average per member, $6.28.

In 1822, against the judgment of a majority of the Presbyteries, the General Synod of the Associate Reformed Church, by a small majority [yeas, 7; nays, 5; silent, 4.] adopted a basis of union with the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church. In consequence of this action the Synod of Pennsylvania was dissolved. The Synod of New York continued its organization as an independent court, but co-ordinate with the Synods of the South and West.

In 1841, the General Synod of the West was organized with two subordinate Synods—the First and the Second of the West.

In 1855, the Synod of New York entered into union with the General Synod of the West, and thus "The General Synod of the Associate Reformed Church of North America" was organized upon the basis of the standards of the Associate Reformed Church adopted in 1799, except that the General Synod had not appellate power in cases of discipline. Twenty-seven Presbyteries were represented in the first meeting of the General Synod in 1856.

A basis of union with the Associate Synod having been ventured and adopted by the Presbyteries, the General Synod, by a vote of ninety-three to four, formally agreed to the consummation of the union under the name of "The United Presbyterian Church of North America." According to previous arrangement, the two Synods having adjourned at their respective places of meeting in Pittsburgh, Pa., met at the corner of Smithfield and Seventh streets, May 26, 1858, and marched in procession to the City Hall in double file—one consisting of the members of the Associate Reformed Synod and the other of the members of the Associate Synod—and there, with appropriate and solemn ceremony, formally united the Churches and constituted a General Synod; and, a General Assembly, to be composed of delegates from the various Presbyteries, was called to meet in Xenia, Ohio, May 18, 1859.

IV. THE UNITED PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH OF NORTH AMERICA.—The Westminster Confession of Faith (with a modified article on the power of the civil magistrate circa sacra), the Catechisms, Larger and Shorter, and the following doctrinal declarations, formed the basis upon which the United Presbyterian Church was brought into existence.

DECLARATORY ARTICLES.

1. We declare, That God has not only in the Scriptures of the Old and New Testaments made a revelation of His will to man as the only rule of faith and practice, but that these Scriptures, viewed as a revelation from God, are in every part the inspired word of God, and that this inspiration extends to the language as well as to the sentiments which they express.

2. We declare, That our Lord Jesus Christ is not only true and supreme God, being one in essence with the Father, but also the Son of God, in respect to His natural, necessary and eternal relation to the Father.

3. We declare, That God having created man in a state of perfect holiness, and in possession of a perfect ability to obey Him in all things, did enter into a covenant with Him, in which covenant Adam was the representative of all his natural posterity, so that in him they were to stand or fall, as he stood or fell.

4. We declare, That our first parents did, by their breach of covenant with God, subject themselves to His eternal wrath, and bring themselves into such a state of depravity as to be wholly inclined to sin, and altogether unable by their own power to perform a single act of acceptable obedience to God; and that all their natural posterity, in virtue of their representation in the covenant, are born into the world in the same state of guilt, depravity and inability, and in this state will continue until delivered therefrom by the grace and righteousness of the Lord Jesus Christ.

5. We declare, That our Lord Jesus Christ did, by the appointment of the Father, and by His own gracious and voluntary act, place Himself in the room of a definite number, who were chosen in Him before the foundation of the world, so that He was their true and proper legal security; and as such did, in their behalf, satisfy the justice of God, and answer all the demands which the law had against them, and thereby infallibly obtain for them eternal redemption.

6. We declare, That in justification there is an imputation to the believer of that righteousness, or satisfaction and obedience, which the Lord Jesus Christ, as the surety of His people, rendered to the law; and that it is only on the ground of this imputed righteousness that his sins are pardoned and his person accepted in the sight of God.

7. We declare, That the gospel, taken in its strict and proper sense, as distinguished from the law, is a revelation of grace to sinners as such, and that it contains a free and unconditional offer and grant of salvation through Christ to all who hear it, whatever may be their character or condition.

8. We declare, That in true and saving faith there is not merely an assent of the mind to the proposition that the Lord Jesus Christ is the Saviour of sinners, but also a cordial reception and appropriation of Him by the sinner as his Saviour, with an accompanying persuasion or assurance corresponding to the degree or strength of his faith that he shall be saved by Him, which appropriation and persuasion are founded solely upon the free and unconditional and unlimited offer of Christ and salvation in Him, which God makes in the gospel to sinners of mankind.

9. We declare, That the repentance which is a saving grace is one of the fruits of a justifying faith, and of course cannot be regarded as a ground of the sinner's pardon, or as necessary to qualify him for coming to Christ.

10. We declare, That although the moral law is of perpetual obligation, and consequently does and ever will bind the believer as a rule of life, yet as a covenant he is by his justification through Christ completely and forever set free from it, both as to its commanding and condemning power, and consequently not required to yield obedience to it as a condition of life and salvation.

11. We declare, That the Holy Spirit, the third person of the Trinity, does, by a direct operation accompanying the word, so act upon the soul as to quicken, regenerate and sanctify it; and that without this direct operation the soul would have no ability to perceive in a saving manner the truths of God's Word or yield to the motives which it presents.

12. We declare, That our Lord Jesus Christ, besides the dominion which belongs to Him as God, as our God-man Mediator, a two-fold dominion with which He has been invested by the Father as the reward of His sufferings. These are a dominion over the Church, of which He is the living head and law-giver, and the source of all that divine influence and authority by which she is sustained and governed; and also a dominion over all created persons and things, which is exercised by Him in subserviency to the manifestation of God's glory in the system of redemption and the interests of His Church.

13. We declare, That the law of God, as written upon the heart of man, and as set forth in the Scriptures of the Old and New Testaments, is supreme in its authority and obligations, and that where the commands of the Church or State are in conflict with the commands of this law we are to obey God rather than man.

14. We declare, That slaveholding, that is the holding of unoffending human beings in involuntary bondage and considering and treating them as property, and subject to be bought and sold, is a violation of the law of God and contrary both to the letter and spirit of Christianity.

15. We declare, That all associations, whether formed for political or benevolent purposes, which impose upon their members an oath of secrecy or an obligation to obey a code of unknown laws, are inconsistent with the genius and spirit of Christianity, and Church members ought not to have fellowship with such associations.

16. We declare, That the Church should not extend communion, in sealing ordinances, to those who refuse adherence to her profession or subjection to her government and discipline, or who refuse to forsake a communion which is inconsistent with the profession that she makes, nor should communion in any ordinance of worship be held under such circumstances as would be inconsistent with keeping of these ordinances pure and entire, or so as to give countenance to any corruption of the doctrines and institutions of Christ.

17. We declare, That public social covenanting is a moral duty, the observance of which is not required at stated times, but on extraordinary occasions, as the providence of God and the circumstances of the Church may indicate. It is reasonable in times of great danger to the Church, in times of exposure to backsliding, or in times of reformation when the Church is returning to God from a state of backsliding. When the Church has entered into such covenant transactions, they continue to bind posterity faithfully to adhere to and prosecute the grand object for which such engagements have been entered into.

18. We declare, That it is the will of God that the songs contained in the Book of Psalms be sung in His worship, both public and private, to the end of the world; and in singing God's praise these songs should be employed to the exclusion of the devotional compositions of uninspired men.

God has set His seal of approbation upon this union, and has manifested His favor in the blessing resting upon the work of the Church and the prominent position assigned her among the organized forces for the conversion of the world and the redemption of society.

Statistics: 1 General Assembly; 13 Synods; 68 Presbyteries; 1,026 ministers; 88 licentiates; 67 students of theology; 995 congregations; 132,476 communicants; 133,631 Sabbath school scholars and teachers; 39,715 members of Young People's societies; total contributions for 1902, $1,874,514; average per member, $14.13.

V. THE UNITED PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH OF OREGON.—Missionaries were sent by the General Synod of the Associate Reformed Church, and by the Synod of the Associate Church, to the territory of Oregon, with instructions to constitute themselves into Presbyteries. These Presbyteries entered into a union, constituting "The United Presbyterian Church of Oregon," October 20, 1852, upon the basis of "the Word of God as the only rule of faith and practice and the supreme and final authority for the regulation of doctrine, worship, and government; the Westminster Confession of Faith and Catechisms, Larger and Shorter; all matters of previous separation to be held as matters of private opinion and Christian forbearance; the form of Government and Directory for Worship in use by both Churches to be continued, subject to modifications necessary to adapt them to the present conditions."

This union was approved by the General Synod of the Associate Reformed Church, but was disapproved by the Synod of the Associate Church. The body continued as an independent Presbytery until 1859, when it adopted the basis of union of 1858, and, in 1860, was admitted to the jurisdiction of the General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church as the Presbytery of Oregon, with the reserved right of final jurisdiction in cases of discipline.

THE CHURCH IN EGYPT.

In 1853, the General Associate Reformed Synod of the West transferred the Rev. James Barnett from Damascus, Syria, to the city of Cairo, Egypt, for the purpose of establishing a mission. In 1854, the Rev. Thomas McCague and wife, from America, were sent to his assistance. In 1857, the Rev. Gulian Lansing, of the Syrian Mission, located at Alexandria, Egypt, where he found Mr. John Hogg, a theological student, who had established a school the previous year under the auspices of a Scottish Missionary Society. From these two centers—Cairo and Alexandria—the mission work has spread throughout the valley of the Nile and into the Sudan. Missionaries have been added to the force as the needs have required.

THE MISSION IN TRINIDAD.

In 1842, the Synod of the Associate Church resolved to establish a mission in South America, and sent out the Rev. Joseph Banks to determine the field of operations. In 1843, the Island of Trinidad, with Savanne Grande as the center of work, was selected. Mr. Banks was now joined by the Rev. David Gordon and Miss Beveridge. Mr. Gordon died in December, 1844, and Miss Beveridge returned with Mrs. Gordon. In 1845, the Rev. John Scott, and, in 1847, Mr. Andrew Thompson, of Pittsburgh, were added to the corps of workers. In 1851, the Rev. Joseph Banks returned, and the Rev. W. H. Andrew and Miss McCall were sent out. The buildings being in decay, and the field fully occupied by other agencies, the mission was turned over to the Free Church of Scotland in 1852.

THE MISSION IN SYRIA.

In 1844, the General Associate Reformed Synod of the West decided to establish a mission among the Jews in Syria. The Rev. James Barnett and Dr. J. G. Paulding were sent out as missionaries, and they selected the city of Damascus as the most suitable field for such a work. In 1851, the Revs. Gulian Lansing and J. A. Frazier, with their wives; in 1854, Miss Sarah B. Dales; and, in 1857, the Rev. John Crawford and wife, and Dr. Alexander Hattie, were added to the mission force. The massacre of 1860, and other discouragements, so weakened the work that the mission gradually declined, and was finally transferred to the Presbyterian Church of Ireland in 1878.

THE MISSION IN CHINA.

In 1860, the Rev. J. C. Nevin and wife were sent to Canton, China, to establish a mission. In 1868, they were joined by the Rev. Joseph McKelvey and wife, who remained two years. The work was transferred to Los Angeles, Cal., in 1878.

THE MISSION IN ITALY.

Although not under the control of the Church, it heartily supported the American and Foreign Christian Union in missions in Central and Northern Italy. In 1862, the Rev. W. G. Moorehead was sent out from our Church, and labored for eight years.

THE ASSOCIATE CHURCH IN CANADA.

1. The Associate Presbytery of the Canadas was organized at Montreal, Can., July 9, 1818, composed mostly of ministers from the Associate and Relief Churches of Scotland, but was independent of foreign control. This Presbytery was dissolved, June 12, 1831, when it became known as—

2. The United Synod of Upper Canada.

This court was dissolved in 1840, by a union with the Church of Scotland.

3. The Missionary Presbytery of the Canadas, of the United Associate Synod of the Secession Church of Scotland, was organized December 25, 1834, and was dissolved July 15, 1847, when it assumed the name of—

4. The Synod of the United Presbyterian Church of Canada.

This court, in turn, was dissolved June 6, 1861, when all of the existing branches coalesced with the Free Presbyterian Church, forming "The Canada Presbyterian Church."

5. The Associate Presbytery of Stamford was organized November 19, 1835, in connection with the Synod of the United States, and continues in the United Presbyterian Church.

Brief sketches will be given of the early ministry of the Associate Church in Canada, many of whom passed into the United Presbyterian Church of Canada and the Canada Presbyterian Church.
